

UN|HUSHED

Hard topics the easy way. Sex ed done right.

Teen Dating Violence: Facts

Of teenagers who dated someone in the last year as many as 30% experienced emotional abuse in the last 18 months.

At least 10% of teenagers who dated someone in the last year experienced some sort of dating violence.

Of those teens who experienced dating violence, half attempted suicide.

Teens may experience dating violence in person or digitally (through cell phones, social media, etc.), and abuse is often both in-person and digital.

Anyone can be abused in a relationship regardless of their gender or identity. Statistically it is more common for males to be abusive than it is for females or non binary people.

Even strong people can be in an abusive relationship.